Meeting Began at 21:39.

Past events:

The tapes for What's Up RPI? have been copied to hard drive, and the team will be meeting after the business meeting, according to Dan Falkenstrom. Travis Hidlay has 45 minutes to an hour of interviews with professors on tapes, and those will be copied to a hard drive sometime this weekend. Joe Goullaud asked for a projection of the airdate for What's Up RPI?. Dan Falkenstrom says beginning of March. Joe Goullaud will get on their asses for it.

Upcoming Events:

Charlie Emala says we will be taping men's hockey versus Colgate, the Friday after this one. Six people volunteered to help out. The crew will meet at 4 pm.

Men's Hockey versus Cornell Whiteout, on Saturday February 10, will be webstreamed, just like the Freakout. The crew will meet 1:00. Andy Clark encouraged everyone to volunteer. Many did.

Charlie needs your help to poster campus after the meeting. Andy Clark modeled several sample posters.

There will be a work party Saturday 7:00 (PM, of course) in Sharp to get some things done, organizing, labeling equipment, etc. A list of volunteers was recorded.

Charlie Emala moved on to shows. Joe Goullaud reported on battle of the bands. He should hopefully start editing it this weekend, which actually may happen because he has a new harddrive to help with multicam. The epic Pool Show may be worked on this weekend by Sean Andrese. Charlie Emala demanded a report on Doraj. Andy Clark pushed back his promise of a report to next week, then asked about food.

Evidence on appropriate snacks for business meetings was presented, including some optimization of the amount of food and the amount of time the fund will last. Andy Clark says a slice of pizza is more food than a donut. Joe Goullaud commented on a particular supplier of pizza. Eric Klauser provided an interesting commentary, and someone suggested frozen pizza. Charlie Emala demanded a consensus, and didn't get one. The club agreed to alternate donuts and pizza. It was eventually decided that Hoosick pizza would be the best supplier.

Charlie Emala: Anything Else? Anything Else? Anything? Anybody? Okay then.

The meeting was adjourned at 21:52.
