- Yale Benchmarking went well, but there was snow. Kyle bought a Yale t-shirt. We're not going tomorrow because of Snow. We haven't done much, but apparently, overall there will be three presentations – to the president, the assistant deans for the commons, and to the BOT. Mike DiTore will be the point man for the project going forward. Tiffany is impressed by James suave interviewing skills.
- Hockey versus Quinnipiac went well, but there was power outage. We are still experimenting as to what exactly happened.
- Big Red Freakout - Kyle has a lot of footage, but we are going to forget it actually happened.
- Tamoney is taking the lead on the Date Auction.
- Alex Niaura will be taking the lead on the Genericon production.
- An evening of performance is this Friday. We will be doing a 2 person shoot. It will be a straightforward and paid production. We have sent them a quote for 70 bucks. $60 dollars for 6 man hours of production and $10 for media (11-0-0)
- Iron Chef will also be this weekend.. It's on the 27th and starts 7pm and ends at around 9pm. (11-0-0). James will be producing this production. Show up at the closet at 6pm.
- Wednesday Night Live will be hosting the "new pioneers". We've done WNL post-edit & live-cuts. Reilly would like to do it livecut. Livecut requires N+2 volunteers, where N is number of cameras which usually are 3 or 4. Setup will start at around 5pm. Kyle will be producing. (11-0-0)
- We will be recording the speaker series next Tuesday. It will be a paid production running from 7pm – 9pm. James will be the point man for the production, but he cannot be at the camera shoot. (11-0-0).
- Haris made three, "that's what she said" jokes in the span of two minutes.
- Trigs is now a Senior Equipment Operator (11-0-0)
- Student Hamilton is discussed for a couple of minutes.
