Meeting started at 9:33 PM.

Meeting stopped at 9:33 PM.

Andy Clark blames Robert Otlowski.

Meeting started at 9:33 PM.

Alrighty. Everybody has an agenda, very good. So we're going to go over the past events, now that we have past events to go over. Cultural Pride Night was Friday night. It went well except we blew a fuse and lost the DVD, but we have the VHS and DVCAM.

Football game vs. Hobart. It rained, we lost. Something like four turnovers, it was bad.

Travis Hidlay entered.

Andy Clark asked if anyone wanted to add anything about the events from this weekend. No, good.

Charlie Emala talked about upcoming events. He asked for volunteers for RPI Football vs. Becker on Saturday, September 30, several people did.

Dominic DiFranzo entered. Brian Zaik entered.

Andy Clark asked if Brian Zaik wanted to help with the football game on Saturday. Brian Zaik said he'd have to get back to Andy Clark.

Andy Clark said we used three cameras last game, he wants to use four this time.

Charlie Emala said on Sunday we're going to have Pistols at Dawn. Andy Clark said Pistols at Dawn is a show that was started last semester. They started the show with the premise of serious debate about ridiculous topics. The first one was about repealing the law of gravity. It's on Sunday, October 1 at 11:00 AM. Andy Clark asked for volunteers, several people did so.

Andy Clark said we usually do three cameras for this one.

Andy Clark decimated Dan Ostrov's armada of paper battleships.

Mike Rahaim entered.

Dan Ostrov did the programming report. Doraj is being edited. Sean Andrese and Marc Ebuña aren't leaving the room until they work out a time to capture. Dan Ostrov asked Dominic DiFranzo about his show.

Dominic DiFranzo has worked on it a little bit. He needs one camera guy. Dan Ostrov asked if he'd submitted his proposal, he said he'd forgotten. He'll talk to Dan Ostrov after the meeting.

Steve Beeman said his group hasn't had meetings this week or last week. They need people to help them scripting-wise, not so much filming. Dominic DiFranzo volunteered.

Some guy came in, talked to Briavel Schultz, and then left.

Mike Filippone and Briavel Schultz said they're working on their treasure show.

Andy Clark said Budget Cuts is on hold and The Mole is on hold; The Mole is waiting for girls as contestants.

Steve Beeman suggested that a guy wear a wig.

Andy Clark talked about donations for donuts. He asked who would rather have pizza. A few people raised their hands. Mike Filippone said if it was iLoves, he would definitely want that, but not so much for Pizzabella. Andy Clark said Dunkin Donuts has just raised their prices.

Andy Clark said that the Student Senate and RPI TV are having an unofficial movie night, not onto an LCD screen, but an LCD projector onto a screen. It's going to be a movie on a big screen. Andy Clark also brought some speakers, and there's some food left over from the last one. We could possibly have one this Saturday. Robert Otlowski said we're going to start having one every day. Andy Clark said supposedly you can hear us from freshman hill. The food is entirely free, August Fietkau is just fronting the money himself, we don't know why. Sometimes there's pizza, five pounds of gummy worms, etc. This past Saturday, we watched Hunt for Red October, tonight is Aliens, Andy Clark doesn't know what's next. It's going to be at 10:00 PM right out on the balcony here.

Also, t-shirts. We haven't gotten anywhere because we haven't settled on polos vs. t-shirts. Everyone agrees that there should be a logo on the front, but not what's on the back. Crew, staff, TV crew, etc. Brian Zaik said it's going to have to be an executive decision, or maybe we should have a wheel that we spin to pick one. If anyone has any more suggestions, Andy Clark is all ears. The problem with CREW on the back is that everyone thinks we're on the rowing team. Andy Clark said that Sundhari Ganesan had actually asked if we were on the crew team when she saw the shirt. Andy Clark doesn't know. TV crew or TV staff seems kind of cheesy. Charlie Emala suggested stupid names, Andy Clark said no.

Andy Clark is going to send out a reminder for the crew for football and Pistols at Dawn. We might have to cancel Pistols at Dawn, but we hope not.

Anybody? Open floor? You can all help set up for the movie night, have a good night, meeting's over.

Meeting adjourned at 9:48 PM.
