Meeting Began at 21:37.

Charlie Emala welcomed the new members at this New Members Meeting. There were none.

The club has filmed four candidate speeches. The completion was delayed because one candidate missed their appointment and needed to be rescheduled, says Joe Goullaud.

Joe Goullaud reported on last week's Wednesday Night Live, the production of which had some problems during setup, but was filmed successfully, and will be airing through next Thursday. Volunteers for this week's live band were listed.

Charlie Emala asked about the possibility of shooting Battle of the Bands this weekend (March 24). Much to his surprise, Andy Clark volunteered. Unfortunately, there were only two other volunteers, and it is unclear whether the event will go forward. There was general debate on whether it should be live edited, or edited later.

Nine out of ten members of the Executive Committee have already volunteered for the GM/PU debates (March 28), Scott Altman also volunteered, and Andy Clark may show up.

Andy Clark gave the members candy canes.

Vice President of Programming Joe Goullaud reported that the Senate Meeting, Wednesday Night Live, and the Third Annual Gospel expo were aired this weekend, providing content on channel 6 nearly 24/7. More broadcasts will be scheduled tonight.

What's Up RPI final editing will be completed within the week, and the crew has yet to plan the next episode. Andy Clark told Joe Goullaud about an easier way to parts of video in Adobe.

The spring activity fair is coming up. Eric Klauser said he was busy that day without knowing when it was. The date is April 14, and Charlie Emala asked that people volunteer to help out. Marc Ebuña said that we could attract new members with models from Rensselaer Pride Association.

Charlie Emala would like to hold a new training session, and also allow trained members to learn more about the equipment. He expects about 498 new members, so will reserve DCC 308.

Sean Andrese suggested expanding content with new sports like baseball, and possibly filming the ROTC drill meet. We will wait to hear from WRPI on whether these events will be announced.

Nick Wood is still club bitch.

Andy Clark received an anonymous complaint through the complaints department, rpitv-andy@union.rpi.edu stating that the club sends too many emails.

The club discussed further arrangements for a training session.

Charlie Emala thanked the club for listening to his ramblings on a weekly basis. Anyone who can shoot Battle of the Bands should email him. That's it.

The meeting was adjourned at 22:04.
