Nick Wood entered. Charlie Emala welcomed him and gave him permission to make fun of Eric Klauser and Andy Clark. Nick Wood has caused Andy Clark enough pain already pain already by getting Andy Clark and Eric Pratt elected to Alumni Class positions that they did not want. Charlie Emala applauded his efforts.

Charlie Emala went back to the GM/PU debates, describing how the IOP made a mess by putting to stickers on every chair in DCC 308.

Charlie Emala asked for volunteers for this week's live band. This week's band is supposed to be pretty good and is not a metal band. Taping is Wednesday night, volunteers should show up at 6:00.

Next on the agenda is the Activity fair, April 14, and Charlie Emala needs volunteers to promote the club and to gawk at the new freshman girls. Several people volunteered.

The club is considering filming Rock Against Genocide, a benefit concert for the people of Darfur. Charlie Emala explained this to Andy Clark. Andy Clark said that its kind of far off, but Charlie Emala says the club needs to make a commitment. Andy Clark began setting up a tripod, Charlie Emala asked him what he was doing and received no response.

Dan Falkenstrom reported on What's Up RPI. Most of the show's crew was not present, but Dan Falkenstrom is considering ideas such as a documentary on the Physical Plant or the VCC. Andy Clark doesn't think they'll be able to get into the VCC, Charlie Emala says he's been there. They might also check out one of the school's machine shops.

Charlie Emala started talking about the End of the 'Tute video.

Andy Clark brought up that he had heard from a couple people who wanted create a show. Marc Ebuña said it will be a cross between Drew Carey's Green Screen Shows and Thank God You're Here. Dan Falkenstrom wanted to know how it will be based on a show that has not premiered yet. Charlie Emala will torrent it. Some people are interested in learning more about the switcher, specifically Chroma Key.

The club discussed the possibility of interviewing the new GM. Andy Clark doesn't think it would be valuable on its own. Several people like the idea, and it could possibly be incorporated into What's Up RPI. Nick Wood says that not much has been done yet to talk about, and that this is the busiest time of the year for the senate, so it might be good to wait for the fall.

Charlie Emala would like to buy something shiny, electronic, and expensive.

Eric Klauser says it will snow this weekend.

Andy Clark asked Nick Wood to disconnect the temporary wireless router in the room. Several officers objected, so it was not unplugged. A debate about network connectivity on campus this weekend ensued.

Charlie Emala says this was not the worst meeting ever. We actually got some stuff done.

The meeting was adjourned at 9:52.
